Key Activations

Commanders' new mascot Major Tuddy will make his first official gameday appearance after being revealed last week. Major Tuddy will hold meet and greets at Legends Plaza from 2:00-2:30 p.m. and will be on field during each game break in-game to hype up the crowd. Major Tuddy will also make a pregame visit to the USO Metro Club at FedExField where he will mingle with military service members, veterans and their families in attendance.

Farewell to Mando

Commanders 2022 team dog, Mando, will make his final appearance as the team dog before he goes on to be a successful, difference-making companion for a veteran in need. With support from The Washington Commanders Charitable Foundation, Mando has been in training with K9s For Warriors, an organization that provides highly trained service dogs to military veterans suffering from PTSD, traumatic brain injury, and/or military sexual trauma. Roughly 20 veterans die by suicide each day, and Mando will play a crucial role in K9s for Warriors' mission to change that. Through all his hard work and training over the past few months, Mando has successfully graduated from the program and is officially a K9s for Warriors Service Dog. He will be paired with his forever veteran in the coming weeks.

WASHINGTON COMMANDERS

CHARITABLE FOUNDATION

- Coin Toss Kid: The Washington Commanders will host Bria and Kaia Davidson for The Coin Toss Kid Experience. The child will join the referees and team captains at the 50-yard line for the coin toss and enjoy the game from the Washington Commanders Charitable Foundation's suite.
- Kick off Kid: The Washington Commanders will host Anne Genho to retrieve the second half kick-off tee. Diagnosed with T-Cell Leukemia, 8-year-old Anne Genho from Woodville, Virginia has received on-going support from the Hogfarmers Charitable Foundation over the past year. The Kickoff Kid Experience is an opportunity for a child to run on the field and receive the kicking tee at the start of the game and the second half. The experience includes pregame field passes to watch warmups from the sidelines and enjoying the game from the Washington Commanders Charitable Foundation's suite.
- Community Corner: The Washington Commanders Charitable Foundation will host the Virginia Hurricanes, competitive flag football teams for girls ages 8-15, for the Community Corner experience. The experience includes tickets for the whole team on club level, parking, and access to the visitor's tunnel during pregame warmups.
- 50/50 raffle: 50% of the game's jackpot will go to one lucky winner and the other 50% will go to the Washington Commanders Charitable Foundation in support of youth programs in the community. Proceeds directly benefit educational programs and health and wellness programs to prepare our local youth for their future.

YEAR

On Tuesday January 3, Washington Commanders Fan of the Year, presented by Safeway Chris Bryant visited a local Safeway where he was given $200, matched by the Hogfarmers Foundation, to shop for supplies for families coping with childhood cancer. Additionally, at the home matchup versus the Dallas Cowboys on January 8 Chris will distribute $100 Safeway gift cards to unexpected fans in the Redzone Lot.

 COMMAND FORCE

Command Force will perform four routines for the final home game versus the Cowboys. Command Force will perform a signature routine during pregame, a high-energy, visual dance that captures the spirit of Command Force and highlights the dancers, Beat Ya Feet, and gymnasts. In between first and second quarter, Command Force will perform a Beat Ya Feet-inspired routine to Bounce Like Dis by former Washington player Vernon Davis featuring Tone P. Local DC Beat Ya Feet talent will join Command Force for this special performance. At the start of fourth quarter the team will perform "Military," a high-energy hip hop that highlights our appreciation for the military forces. At the end of the fourth quarter, Beat Ya Feet will perform a dynamic routine with the drumline.

PRESS BOX NOTES

The Washington Commanders will retire Sonny Jurgensen's jersey during the team's season finale today, presented by NRG Energy. Sonny was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1983, is a five-time Pro Bowler, and member of Washington's Ring of Fame and inaugural 70 Greatest list. He ranks No. 2 in franchise history in completions, passing yards, and passing touchdowns. The Washington Legend spent 55 years in Washington as a player and a member of the franchise's radio booth. Sonny will become the fourth player in the franchise's 90-year history to have his jersey retired.

Sonny will be recognized in a halftime ceremony that will take place on the field, which will include members of Jurgensen's family and team executives. Sonny will enjoy the game and his halftime moment from a customized suite full of imagery and memorabilia commemorating his time with the team. He will be joined by his wife Margo, along with his close friend and former teammate Billy Kilmer. Commanders players will honor Sonny with a #9 decal worn on their helmets in-game.

Today also will mark the official launch of the Sonny Jurgensen capsule collection. The collection includes a hoodie and t-shirt with the iconic "I Like Sonny" sticker, a traditional throwback t-shirt, a crew neck sweatshirt with his name and #9, and fleece zip up. The collection will be available at the Commanders Team Store, A Fanatics Experience at FedExField, beginning on Sunday, January 8 at 2 p.m. when gates officially open. Proceeds from the merchandise launch will be distributed to a charity chosen by the Jurgensen family.

Special fan engagement opportunities include a large #9 outside section 131, a customized Sonny Jurgensen mural located in Legends Plaza, and an interactive Sonny Jurgensen display which includes bespoke art helmets on display, Sonny-signed jersey and a customized modular wall tribute in the team store. Upon gates opening, the first nine fans in line at the team store will receive a replica #9 ticket signed by Sonny. Additionally, fans will have the opportunity to receive replica "I like Sonny" stickers at the team store, while supplies last.

The modular wall tribute and mural in the team store was designed by Rolland Berry. Rolland Berry is an American painter residing in Los Angeles, California, United States. He holds a master's degree in philosophy from Harvard University and is a provocateur, philanthropist, and educator. Rolland's works blurs the lines between fine art and graffiti.
